Introduction:

The B-W Greenway Community Land Trust (B-WGC) Collection was donated by Robert Jurick in March 2003. Additions were added to the collection in March 2007. The papers in this collection date from 1998-2007. The collection consists of one Hollinger box and 1 oversize box (5 linear feet). The contents in the collection include the organization's newsletter "The Great Heart", Board of Trustee's Minutes, and original artwork done by a member. The copyright for the artwork is held by the artist. The collection is arranged into five series:

- I. Administrative
- II. Land
- III. Programs
- IV. Publications
- V. Artwork

Institution Sketch:

The B-W Greenway Community Land Trust (B-WGC) was established in 1998. The "B" stands for the Beaver Creek Wetlands and the "W" for the Estel Wenrick Wetlands. The primary goal of this organization is to maintain wetlands, a greenway, and land management. The B-WGC lies in the towns of Beaver Creek and Fairborn, the townships of Bath, Beaver Creek and Mad River, and the counties of Clark and Greene.

Scope and Content:

Series I. Administrative. Consists of Board of Trustee's Minutes, Strategic Plan, and resolutions and by-laws. Also included are Annual Reports.

Series II. Land. This series consist of inspection reports on property easements currently maintained by the B-WGC. Of particular interest is the process of acquiring the Adrian Property.

Series III. Programs. Included in this series are programs from the Sweet Corn Festival held in Fairborn, Ohio. Also there are programs and workshops that B-WGC either participated in or organized themselves.

Series IV. Publications. Of particular interest in this series is the B-WGC's newsletter, "The Green Heart". Also included are newspaper clippings about the organization as well as booklet's about B-WGC and a "Local Food Sources Directory."

Series V. Artwork. This series consists of original artwork done by Joseph Barrish. The artwork consists of water colored portraits of various flowers that are in the B-WGC's wetlands area. The letters and numbers next to the flower name indicate which volume and issue number of "The Green Heart" the artwork is featured in. The copyright for the artwork is held by the artist.
